From the Farmer's Cabinet. BROADCAST AND DRELLED WHEAT.

At the present period, when the price of agricultural produce of every discription is so reduced, it becomes of great importance to the farmer to proaching to the verge of never-ending enjoyments, look around and see whether he cannot increase the produce of his soil without increasing his expenses. This is particularly needful in raising wheat. From some causes, perhaps not well understood, the wheat crop has become, in the Eastern and Atlantic States, exceedingly precarious. Our wheat, even when not attacked by enemies

-such as rust or fly-has been gradually diminishing in the amount raised to the acre. The report of the Farmer's Club of New York states that the quantity has decreased there from 30 to 10 or 15 bushess per acre. This diminution is owing, probably, to the land being gradually robbed of the constituents of the wheat, by sending the grain away, while we retain the straw to make food to supply succeeding crops; hence, if we put on enough of this kind of manure, we may raise large crops of straw but not grain in proportion. And, further, as if we thought we had yet too much grain, we have our manure-yards so planed, that the saline parts (which are the most important in the formation of the grain, and which are soluble by water) have every facility to enable them to be washed away by repeated showers.

But is our present method of planting or sowing wheat the most likely to ensure the largest yield: This is what I now wish to speak of. In the work of Mr. Jethro Tull, (the advocate of thorough tileage,) printed about one hundred years ago, he tileage,) printed about one hundred years ago, he states that, while other farmers were sowing two town and the vicinity. Residence third door East or three bushels of wheat to the acre, and reaping of Carter's Hotel. only 15 or 20 bushels, he drilled about half a bushel in three rows, about eight faches apart, in the middle, six feet wide lands, and usually obtained about 40 or 50 bushels per acce—and this, without the aid of much manure. This success he attributed to tilling the land waile the wheat was growing. He turned the furrow with what he called his hoe plough, alternately from and to the rows of wheat, like many who use the plough are in the habit of tilling their corn. In the spaces of eight inches between the rows, the ground was loosened by hand hoeing.

This plan—though not adapted to American farming, for the reason that, generally, we wish grass to follow our wheat crop-was yet deemed ufficeintly plausible to determine us to give a fair trial to the drilling, in comparison with the broad-cast plan. Accordingly, in the fall of 1843, our field (the clover being all ploughed under, and a light dressing of manure-about ten one-horse cart-loads to the acre—being spread on the surface) was nicely harrowed. We commenced at one side, sowed broadcast about six acres, with about two bushels of seed to the acre. In about a week afterwards, we were furnished with a drill by our enterprising neighbor, John Jones, o Bohemia Manor, who owned the only wheat drill in the State of Delaware. Commencing on the 20th of the 8th month, we drilled about 27 acres, putting in about 10 acres a day, with one bushel and one peck of seed to the acre. The cost of the drill (including the service of one man and one horse) was 50 cents an acre, though two horses were required to work the drift. All the wheat, both broadcast and drilled, stood the winter well; turers ta-to appearance, the broadcast looked best; it gree and thicker, both in the fall and in the spring. The driver we this and in the spring.

rne dring on thin, and was considered by them failure.
In the 4th month the weather was very dry and warm, which seemed unfavorable for wheat. It appeared to stop it from stooling sufficiently, causing it to shoot up prematurely, and too thinly; but when the heads were forged, there was a manifest difference between the length of the drilled and the broadcast-those on the drilled wheat being decidedly longer. The whole crop was free from rust or fly, excepting along one head land, which had been eaten off by cattle when about one foot or eight inches in height, where we found the fly in abandance; showing, certainly, that insects are most likely to attack those plants whose powers have been impaired; thus teaching farmers that the most likely way to avoid the fly, and even rust, is to keep their plants, by all known means, in as healthy a condition as they possibly can; for where one field of vigorous wheat will be distroyed by the fly or rust, ten will be which are either put in badly, or are Previously to harvest, we had five acres carefully measured with the chain and compass, by W. Pennington, the surveyor of the neighborhood, assisted by John Jones.

The surveyor was present when the wheat was cradled, and saw that each acre had its due share. It was put away in separate mows, and threshed separately, and the grain all measured.

Nos. 1 and 2. Two acres of the broadcast surveyed together-two bushels of seed to the acre; senenty-five shocks; fifty-five bashels of wheat, or 27] bushels to the acre. No. 3 -one acre drilled, adjoining the above; the land, if any difference, rather inferior; treated exactly alike-one bushel and one peck of seed to the acre; For y-two shocks; thirty-five bushels. No. 4.—one acre drilled, a little distant from No. 3.—one bushel and one peck of seed; forty-two shocks; thirty five bushels. No. 5 .- one agre drilled, a little distant from No. 4 .- one bushel and one peck of seed; fifty shocks; forty bushels to the acre.

Here we see that, by the use of the drill alone, (the soil being in the same, or perhaps an inferior condition.) the crop was increased 71 bushels per acre, and, adding the amount saved in the seed, (three pecks,) make 8 bushels and one peck to the acre; and further, that the amount of straw on the drill acre, with a smaller quantity of seed sown, increased 12 per cent.; and the amount of grain on the same acre was increased more than 27 per

It may be proper here to state that the whole field (between 30 and 40 acres) was manured and treated alike; although from causes existing previously in the soil, some parts of the land, being naked and barren, was more denuded than others. The surface soil being washed away, did not yield as well as other parts. I suppose that, without the clover and manure, the field would not have averaged more than three bushels-certainly not five bushels to the acre.

The drill used was invented and made by Pennock & Sons, of Kennet Square, Chester county, Pennsylvania, the inventors of the revolving horse rake. Seven rows, about 8 inches apart, are planted by it at one time, about three inches in depth; the planters stand perpendicular; their points, projecting forward, produce small furrows, similar in shape, but deeper in than those made by the teeth of the cultivator. The wheat thas growing in the bottom of the furrow, is protected from the bleak winds of winter, and the fine earth, pulverised by the frosts, fills up the furrows by spring, and nourishes the young plants. Our own convictions, have been sufficiently strong upon the above experiment to cause us to purchase a drill, or, as it should be called, a wheat and corn planter -- for it will do either equally well -for our own use; with which we have put in, this fall, the entire field of wheat-containing about forty acres. Respectfully.

CHARLES NOBLE. Philadelphia, 10th month, '44, P. S. The acre yielding forty bushels of wheat P. S. The acre yielding toxy outsies of which it will be seen. I have not compared with the broadcast in their per centage yield, because of their distance apart; supposing that the difference their distance apart; supposing that one difference their distance apart; supposing the some difference be sold cheaper than ever.

JOHN G. WILSON. of yield might have been owing to some difference

REPOSING IN HOPE .- The tranquility of a mind gradually reposing in the dearest hopes of a bet ter world, is an enjoyment that cannot be purchased at too dear a rate. It is not easy sufficiently to value the peaceful close of a busy life, provided that repose is founded on the right views of Christian hopes, looking beyond the grave; the mist of doubt and perplexities dissipated in the meredian splendor of the gospel truth: the storms of life softening into silence; the delerium of pleasure and the dreams of dissipation fled, and the freed mind resigned to the dictates of reason and the wounds of concience healed by the balm of eternal love; the heart, lacerated by the loss of those once so dear to us, patiently waiting in full expectation of re-union never more to be broken, every angry passion hushed into peace; the evils of life sunk into resignation to the devine will; the fervent desire of the renovating heart apand the whole soul reposing on the bosom of a Saviour's love.

As I grow older I become more lenient to the sins of frail humanity. The man who loudly denounced, I always suspect. He knows too much of a crime who denounces a fellow-creature unheard-a knowledge which can only be obtained by criminallity itself. The hypocrite always strives to avert attention from his own wickedness by denouncing unsparingly that of others. He thinks he shall seem good in exact ratio as he makes others seem bad.—Gathe.

This Hotel is well known at home as well as abroad for the comforts of its pleasant parlors, its delightful chambers, and its very healthy and agreable location-situated in the centre of the town-the front presenting a southern exposure,adjoining the public square, near the market house, and but a few steps from the Court House door, having a good pavement leading to the latter -nearly opposite the post office-and in all respects decidedly the most desirable and convenient location for all business transactions in the town.

It has also acquired much notoriety and celebrity by being known as Abell's Hotel, and without flattery or unmerited applause to Capt. Joseph F. Abell, the public (and especially his patrons) will bear testimony with me to the fact-it is therefore the privilege and pleasure of the undersigned to express a fond hope for the success of his decessor, and for the undisturbed happiness of his amiable family in their new abode at Harpers-

The undersinged deems it only necessary to add, that it will be the constant desire of his heart to keep a genteel, orderly and dignified house, and promises to spare no labor or attention on his part to make it equal, if not more agreeable, than

The chambers are all large, airy and comfortable, with fire-place in each, and boarders can have choice of wood or coal for fuel. The bar shall at all times be supplied with choice Liquors, and, (except upon Sabbath days) may be dealt out in moderation to the weary and thirsty. Having procured from Bushrod Taylor, Esq., o Winchester one of the best cooks in the Valley, the undersigned can, with great confidence, promise to his guests, dishes rare and palatable. And lastly, relying upon his unlimited acquaintance with the good people of his native county, his own unremitting exertions to please, and the liberality of a just and generous public, he flatters himself that he will merit, and hopes to receive, a bountiful share of patronage, with the further assurance, however, that none who favor him with a call shall go away dissatisfied. His charges will be moderate, and all sorts of country produce will be received in payment of bills now due or contracted hereafter at the Hotel.
